

Abstract

A treatment or controlling device that is capable of being inserted insertion into a teat orifice.[[.]] The the device is also capable of being held in position in the teat streak canal once it is inserted in a teat orifice. ~~therein characterised in that the~~ The device is configured to act as a substrate for natural keratin deposition.